問. 下の訳語を参考にして、次の英文を読み、後の問いに答えなさい。

He is considered by many to be the greatest composer of all time. Born in the town of Eisenach*, where his father was town musician, he began studying music as a young boy, at first with his father. Then he became church organist at Arnstadt, and for the rest of his life he worked as organist and choir director in various German cities. It was as an organist that he was most famous during his own lifetime.

His works represent the climax and end of the Baroque period. Rather than introducing new forms and styles, his genius lay in taking the material of his own and earlier periods and creating some of the finest works of their kind. He wrote thousands of compositions, most of them for use in the churches where he was employed or for teaching purposes. In addition to church music, he wrote orchestral and chamber music and a large number of pieces for keyboard instruments. He also wrote easier instructive pieces, some for the use of his wife and children in studying music.

* Eisenach: アイゼナハ(ドイツの地名)

 Arnstadt: アルンシュタット(ドイツの地名)
